Validation procedures: Two bilingual researchers consisted of a nursing specialist knowledgeable about peritoneal dialysis, as well as a specialist with expertise in English finished the forward translations. Our research team (1 professor in the field of CKD, 1 peritoneal dialysis unit nurse and 2 postgraduates majoring in dialysis care) harmonized the translations. Back translations were competed by two other bilingual researchers, one was a professor of nursing who spent one and a half years in the United States as a postdoctoral researcher, and the other was a professor in charge of College English courses and not familiar with medical professional knowledge. Our research team reviewed the back translations.
