Welcome to
Part-time courses for adults
2019-20

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to Cardiff University’s programme of part-time courses for adult learners. We offer a wide range of subjects to study at a variety of different levels, from absolute beginners to more advanced. Most of our courses don’t require lots of existing qualifications, just an interest in the subject and a willingness to explore it in the company of others. Our subjects are listed on page one.

We have also developed Pathways to a Degree to provide a part-time route to undergraduate degrees at Cardiff University (see inside front cover). So whether you’re studying with us for personal development, to enhance your career prospects, or to increase your knowledge you can expect to be stimulated and challenged and, on most courses, earn credits toward a qualification from Cardiff University.

Best wishes,
Dr Zbig Sobiesierski
Director, Continuing and Professional Education

Seven reasons to study with us

Here is a flavour of what you will enjoy when you study with Continuing and Professional Education:

Open, relaxed and inclusive learning
We encourage and welcome everyone to study with us. This means that many of our courses have no entry requirements – all you need is an interest in the subject and a willingness to explore it in the company of others.

There is a strong sense of community here – you will have the opportunity to meet new people, contribute to stimulating discussion and enjoy learning.

There are also free events throughout the year, including public lectures, subject specific events, open days and our annual award ceremony – giving you further opportunities for getting together with other students.

Flexible and accessible study
Are you concerned that your other commitments might affect your studies? We have taken this into consideration and schedule courses during the day, in the evenings and at weekends. We want to make it as easy as possible for you to attend. Some courses are repeated throughout the year too.

We are based in the centre of Cardiff, just 10 minutes walk from the main shopping area, with good transport links and free parking in our main venues during the evening and weekends.

Some courses are available online, which gives you the flexibility to study from home.

We are committed to improving access for all students. You can discuss any specific requirements you may have with our Disability Advisor, whether they are related to access to buildings, or aids to learning. Contact learn@cardiff.ac.uk

You will be taught by a Cardiff University Tutor who is specialised in his/her subject area and is experienced in teaching adult learners. Your Tutor will support you and offer you guidance as you study. Classes are usually small, which makes discussion easier and allows more time for the Tutor to pay attention to your individual needs.

Gain university credits and qualifications

You can earn credits towards qualifications when you complete the required work and assessments. These credits are part of a national scheme, which means they are recognised by most universities and educational establishments. This is useful when you want to continue your studies elsewhere.

Find out more about credits on page 79.

There are a range of accredited pathways available for those hoping to progress on to an undergraduate degree. Please see inside cover.

In a few cases, we also teach students who want to gain professional qualifications offered by external bodies. Find out more about this – and the range of awards and qualifications you can work towards – on page 73.

Extra study support

As well as your Tutor’s support, you will also have access to a range of free study resources:

- The ‘Learning Guide’ offers advice on how you can develop effective ways of studying, so that you make the most of your learning experience at Cardiff University. It is specifically tailored to part-time adult learning. You can read the ‘Learning Guide’ on our website.
- A student handbook is available online, giving you more information and insight into student life, your course and Cardiff University as a whole.
- Advice as you plan your personal development and guidance on how to progress in your studies.

University facilities and resources

When you enrol on a course, you become a Cardiff University student for the duration of your study. This gives you access to a wealth of university facilities and resources:

- Libraries – you can use most of the University’s libraries. You will have access to books, newspapers, magazines, journals, CDs and DVDs, and electronic resources.
- Language Laboratory – we have an interactive digital language laboratory, which we use extensively to enhance speaking and listening skills.
- Computing suite – this is a dedicated teaching room for programming and web development courses.

Student rates and discounts

- Full use of the University’s sports facilities – at a reduced rate;
- Student rates on selected computer software from some suppliers;
- Discounts with a large range of companies, upon purchase of an NUS discount card.
- Student Union membership:
  - 30 credits or above = full membership
  - below = associate membership.

Cardiff University staff and student discount

If you are a member of staff or full-time student at Cardiff University you may be eligible for a discount on your part-time course and pay the concessionary fee. You just need to bring along your current university ID card when you enrol.
Business and Management

Co-ordinating Lecturer: Jan Stephens
Tel: 029 2087 6248  Email: stephensj4@cardiff.ac.uk

As a busy professional, all of our courses are designed to enhance your employability and work practice. Professional Leadership and Management Development along with Managing People I and II are popular courses for all aspects of self-development and supervision skills. All of us need an element of Managing Finance in our home and work lives. For success as a manager then Essential Management Skills and Essential Leadership Skills will give you the knowledge and the skills to succeed.

Taking a course offered in the Pathways section as a stand-alone course is an excellent way to dip your toe in to see if studying towards a degree is for you. If you know that you want to progress to a degree then the Pathway to Business Management or Pathway to Accounting will be an exciting challenge. You need to have B-grade GCSE in Maths to progress to your degree.

When you achieve 60 credits from courses offered in the Business and Management Studies section you are eligible for a Certificate in Continuing Education. For further information contact Jan Stephens at StephensJ4@cardiff.ac.uk

All of the courses are very popular and you should pre-enrol to secure your place.

Computer Studies

Co-ordinating Lecturer: Dr Mike Evans
Tel: 029 2087 0000 Email: evans@cardiff.ac.uk

Our courses are designed to give a student with very little knowledge of computing a sound foundation in particular areas. Students wishing to create their own website should attend the course Web Development with HTML and CSS. HTML is the easiest programming course for a beginner. The further courses PHP1 - PHP Scripting for the Web, PHP2 - Using MySQL with PHP for the Web and PHP3 - PHP Web Application Development allow the student to enhance their website.

There are many courses on other computer programming languages such as C, C++, Java and Python. Students on these courses develop their programming skills by writing programs to solve problems. Five modules, namely C Programming, C++ Programming, Java Programming, Advanced Java Programming and Python Programming are offered as Free Standing Modules so that students may study these modules as part of their undergraduate degree studies.

This course covers the fundamentals of designing a relational database using mySQL and the interface between the mySQL server and the PHP scripting engine. Students will learn to design and build database tables and use them to produce dynamic website applications. This course assumes knowledge of the topics covered in the PHP1 - PHP Scripting for the Web module, or that the students have an understanding of the basic constructs of PHP. The basic syntax of SQL is as applicable to mySQL as it is to SQL in general. Students can continue from this course to PHP3 – PHP Web Application Development. See the Computing page on www.cardiff.ac.uk/learn for details.

Qualifications in Computer Studies

Accreditation: a guide
All our computing courses offer nationally recognised credits which can be used towards a Diploma of Higher Education (120 credits), a Certificate of Advanced Study (60 credits), a Certificate of Higher Education (120 credits), or a Certificate of Continuing Education (60 credits). For further information please see Student Information on page 79.

Diploma of Higher Education (120 credits)
Students wishing to enrol for the Diploma of Higher Education should first check that they satisfy the entry requirements, 120 credits at level 4, or equivalent. To be awarded the Diploma of Higher Education you will need to obtain a total of 120 credits from specified blocks of study at Level 5. There are three blocks of modules currently available in Computer Studies, and you will need to obtain 60 credits from two of the blocks listed below:

Certificate of Advanced Study (60 credits)
These Certificates provide recognition that a student has successfully completed a 60 credit block of study at level 5.

Certificate of Higher Education (120 credits)
The Certificate of Higher Education is awarded once a student has achieved a total of 120 credits. These credits can be from any mixture of subjects at level 4 or above.

Certificate of Continuing Education (60 credits)
These Certificates provide recognition that a student has successfully completed 60 credits in a particular subject at level 4. Credits gained from any of the courses listed in this section can be used to gain a Certificate of Continuing Education in Computer Studies.

Our humanities courses are guaranteed to pique your interest and fire your imagination! If you’ve got a love of arts and culture, then try your hand at creative writing, discover the past, be inspired by classical and jazz music, and get enthused by philosophy.

Our courses are designed to suit all tastes and are taught by knowledgeable and experienced tutors who will ensure that you are made to feel welcome in a friendly and supportive learning environment.

Enrol now to learn new skills, improve your job prospects, or challenge yourself to study at university level and get a qualification. You can build up 60 credits to qualify for a Certificate of Continuing Education in Humanities or in a specific subject area, or gain 120 credits and be awarded a Certificate of Higher Education. You could enrol onto one of our Pathways to a Degree. If you’re thinking any of these routes might be for you, or you’d just like a bit more information or advice, please don’t hesitate to contact the Humanities Co-ordinating Lecturer, Dr Michelle Deininger.

Please check our web pages for the most up-to-date information about course dates, times and locations.

Zainab Javed

While I was growing up in Pakistan, I didn't have many strong female role models to look up to. I saw women being treated as second-class citizens, usually confined within the walls of a house. During this time, I read Jane Eyre and was spellbound. I saw a strong, self-aware woman who wanted to forge her own identity in a largely patriarchal society. By the time I was eighteen, my copy of the book had more than a few loose pages and I was sure of what kind of a person I wanted to be. I was able to identify with the voice of Jane, demanding equal treatment in a world of men, but I could also understand the plight of Bertha, the outsider, entrapped in a prison far more confined than Jane's, labelled as 'mad' just because she didn't conform. I realized how much power the written word has. It had helped transform me from a timid child into a confident woman and somewhere inside I knew I wanted to pursue Literature as a subject in the future.

As time passed, I somehow lost touch with this love of mine as I got preoccupied with life. It was after the birth of my first daughter that I decided I needed to go back to education. I do believe that we find inspiration in the most unexpected places. For me, motherhood was that inspiration. I am about to complete the Inside Narratives Pathway to a Degree programme at Continuing and Professional Education. As well as studying language and linguistics, and ancient philosophy, I have been able to study Jane Eyre as part of my literature modules - the text that began my fascination with literature and led me to want more from my life. As I start my degree in September at Cardiff University, in English Language and Literature, I am looking forward to discovering more incredible female characters and writers. I just hope my daughters grow up to be empathetic, strong and independent women, with the capacity to do good, and that one day they will tell me how strong a role model I was for them.

Writing for Wellbeing

Joanne Meek
In our fast-paced and stress-fuelled culture we are constantly reminded to take care of our wellbeing. How to do this doesn’t always seem so clear. This course explores how writing can be used as a tool for developing personal wellbeing strategies. Suitable for all with an interest in the topic, regardless of previous experience, the emphasis is on engagement and encouragement within a supportive group environment. This course is part of our new suite of Writing and Wellbeing courses.

Ageing and Memory: A Literary Approach

Tutor to be confirmed
We now live in a world where lifetimes span much longer than they did for the generations that went before us. Changes in medical care, the food we consume and the types of work that we do have led to changes in the way our society is formed. We are growing older. This module explores what it means to write about ageing and memory through literature and creative non-fiction. This course is part of our new suite of Writing and Wellbeing courses.

Rewriting the Story: Bodies, Illness and Disability

Tutor to be confirmed
The disability narratives we read in the media are often centred on ‘suffering’, or bravery in the face of adversity, ‘surviving’ rather than simply living. What if we rewrote that story? This module invites students to consider the way bodies, illness and disability can be explored and constructed in creative writing. No previous writing experience is required. This course is part of our new suite of Writing and Wellbeing courses.

Writing for the Stage I: Introduction to Playwriting

Tutor to be confirmed
How does dialogue shape character? Why are silences and pauses so important in drama? What can playwrights of the past teach us about dramatic writing and how has that changed? Taught in a series of practical workshops, this module will introduce students to the basic principles of successful playwriting, from formulating an idea to developing strong characters. No previous experience is required.

If you have always wanted to learn more about English language, literature, creative writing, or philosophy then Inside Narratives is for you. The Inside Narratives Pathway to a Degree enables adult learners to progress onto undergraduate degrees in the School of English, Communication and Philosophy (ENCAP) at Cardiff University.

The Pathway will open up fascinating topics, whilst giving you the tuition and support you need to help you to develop your skills and make the most of your abilities. You will learn about the stories we use to make sense of life, the codes and patterns that connect us to each other, and the big questions that have vexed our greatest thinkers for thousands of years.

Why should I enrol?

- There are no formal entry requirements.
- Our tutors understand the challenges that students can face when they are thinking about restarting their journey in education.
- Most Pathway courses are either held in the evenings or at weekends.
- You can study the Pathway at a pace that suits you – many students study either 30 or 60 credits per academic year.
- You will be fully supported to apply for a degree in ENCAP when you are ready.
- If you don’t want to commit to the Pathway just yet, or are simply interested in taking individual modules, you are still more than welcome to enrol.
- Once you have successfully completed the Pathway, you are guaranteed an interview at ENCAP. Should you progress onto a degree programme, you will be eligible for ‘advanced standing’ of 60 credits – this means that these 60 credits will count towards the first year of your degree. Inside Narratives can lead to these specific degrees in ENCAP:
  - English Literature
  - English Literature and Creative Writing
  - English Language
  - English Language and Literature
  - Philosophy

Other options may also be possible, such as English Language and Philosophy, but students are strongly recommended to discuss their options with the Co-ordinating Lecturer before they choose their modules.

Pathways are designed for those with life experience and we warmly welcome applications from students who may have been away from formal education for some time.

If you would like to discuss the Pathway in more detail please contact Dr Michelle Deininger by emailing DeiningerMJ@cardiff.ac.uk or calling CPE Reception on 029 2087 0000.

How the Pathway works

Inside Narratives is made up of 60 credits.
Each module is worth 10 credits.

To study a particular degree subject after the Pathway, you must study the appropriate core module. All the Inside Narratives core modules have the word ‘Inside’ in the title.

If you want to apply for the degree in English Literature and Creative Writing, for example, make sure you pick Inside Literature and Inside Creative Writing.

If you’re not sure which degree you’d like to do after the Pathway, make sure you pick a range of core and optional Pathway modules that you find interesting, totalling 60 credits.

If you want, you can pick ONE suitable 10 credit module from the main prospectus instead of a Pathway module*.

* For example, students interested in Creative Writing could pick Flash Fiction or Digital Publishing from the main prospectus. Other options may also be available at the discretion of the Co-ordinating Lecturer.
What can fiction tell us about the human condition? How do texts imagine the end of the world? Why do authors explore the human tendency to overreach? Learn to read novels, poetry and plays reflectively and analytically through a range of dark, disturbing and dystopian perspectives.

The cultural achievements of the ancient Greeks and Romans have never been surpassed, or perhaps even equalled, in the millennia following their downfall. On this module, we will explore some of the greatest philosophy, poetry and rhetoric that western civilisation has ever produced. A wandering hero kills a one-eyed giant; a philosopher proves the stupidity of his fellow men, and is put to death by way of thanks; the King of Thebes finds his predecessor’s killer, and does Sigmund Freud a huge favour in the process. Widen your horizons and find out what the ancients did for us!

Before starting evening classes, I had never studied philosophy before. In Dr Clea Rees’s philosophy classes, this didn’t feel like it mattered. The engaging and accessible way that the modules are taught helped me feel able to make meaningful contributions to class discussions even without any prior knowledge. These modules revealed a love of philosophy that I didn’t know I had, and this interest in the subject motivated me to complete the Inside Narratives pathway and embark on a degree in philosophy. The multi-subject nature of the pathway has also helped my degree, giving me tools from other subjects that augment my philosophy study (including modules like New Ways of Reading). Above all I am grateful to the Inside Narratives tutors and the Pathway itself for igniting a love of learning and also enabling me to undertake a degree, which previously seemed impossible.

Pathway to a degree
in Media, Journalism and Culture

Have you always wanted to know more about the media? Are you intrigued by the impact of social media on our privacy, how news stories become headlines, or why films about the end of the world are so popular?

The Pathway to Media gives you the opportunity to ask these kinds of questions, and loads more besides, and will give you a thorough grounding in the skills that you’ll need to study a degree in media, journalism and culture at Cardiff University. The Pathway leads directly into the three undergraduate degrees offered within the School of Journalism, Media and Culture (JOMEC) at Cardiff, a school which has an international reputation for the quality of its research.

Why Enrol on a Pathway?

› There are no formal entry requirements.
› Our tutors understand the challenges that students can face when they are thinking about restarting their journey in education.
› Most Pathway courses are either held in the evenings or at weekends.
› You can study the Pathway at a pace that suits you.
› You will be fully supported to apply for a degree in the School of Journalism, Media and Culture when you are ready.

If you don’t want to commit to the Pathway just yet, or are simply interested in taking individual modules, you are still more than welcome to enrol.

If you’re interested in finding out more about the Pathway to Media, please contact Dr Michelle Deininger Co-ordinating Lecturer in Humanities, by emailing DeiningerMJ@cardiff.ac.uk Alternatively, you can call CPE Reception on 029 2087 0000.

I have always considered myself a feminist, but having completed the Media and Me module, I find myself marvelling at how little I knew, and still know, about the portrayal and use of gender in mainstream media. I find myself breaking down adverts and analysing them in a way that I could never have done and would never have thought to do before. I feel like I've been given a new tool kit to play with, one filled with theories that I can use to understand modern media and language.

Introduction to the Urban History of South Wales

Fee £170.00 (Concessionary Fee £136.00)

Elizabeth Jones

This course examines the growth and development of urban Wales from the Roman towns of Caerwent and Carmarthen to the emergence of Cardiff as the country’s capital city. Over the 10 weeks, students will explore the nature of Welsh towns and their evolution within the wider context of urban Britain. As well as addressing the effect that national and local events had on Welsh urban settlements, students will also examine the political, economic and social changes that impacted the lives of those who lived within these towns.

Exploring Welsh Landscapes

Fee £175.00 (Concessionary Fee £140.00)

Dr Tudur Davies

Landscape archaeology examines how past societies used and perceived the environment around them and, as a discipline, borrows techniques and theories from several other fields of study. Making use of Welsh case studies, this module is designed to introduce students to the methodological and theoretical approaches utilised in landscape archaeology. The majority of sessions for the course will have a practical focus, aiming to give students a ‘hands-on’ experience of using landscape approaches to examine the environment of the past. Includes a field trip (see our website for further details).

The Twentieth Century Garden and Lifestyle

Fee £170.00 (Concessionary Fee £136.00)

Stephen Parker

Post-war modernity sought to rethink and redesign almost every aspect of domestic life, from furniture to houses and gardens. Indeed the very structure of society would be rethought through revolutionary notions, such as socialism and vegetarianism! We focus primarily on house and garden and the overwhelming influence the movement had then, and now, on garden making.

Navigating the Minoan Labyrinth: The Civilisation of Bronze Age Crete

Fee £170.00 (Concessionary Fee £136.00)

Dr Christina Hatzimichael Whitley

Popular knowledge of Bronze-Age Crete is clouded by myths about heroes and monsters. These legends are widely-known but they obscure our understanding of the Minoans, a long-lived and fascinating civilisation that dominated Crete for almost two thousand years. This course will introduce students to the art and archaeology of the Early, Middle and Late Bronze Age in Crete.

Dark Godmothers and Demon Lovers: Perspectives on the Gothic Fairy-tale

Fee £170.00 (Concessionary Fee £136.00)

Dr Juliette Wood

Fairy tales are with us throughout our lives but not all of them end ‘happily ever after’. The type of fairy tale popular with Gothic writers features dangerous, supernatural territories. Using material drawn from history, literature and art, this course will examine the development of gothic fairy tale mythologies and examine why these traditions have proved so durable.

Exploring the Past

Our award-winning part-time pathway in history, archaeology and religion

Exploring the Past has been developed to help you realise your ambition to study history, ancient history, archaeology or religion at degree level. It allows you to study within a timescale, framework and environment designed specifically to cater for the needs of busy adult learners.

Exploring the Past is made up of six exciting and innovative 10-credit modules in archaeology, religious studies and history—ancient, medieval and modern. The pathway is intended to prepare you for Higher Education, giving you the skills and experience you need to study these subjects at Cardiff University.

An exciting alternative to A Level and Access qualifications
Unlike A Level and Access routes, the Exploring the Past Pathway is taught and assessed in similar ways to first year undergraduate courses and provides you with first-hand experience of studying at degree level in a vibrant Higher Education environment. Even better, you don’t need any prior qualifications to get started.

A clear pathway onto a degree
All students who successfully complete the Exploring the Past Pathway will automatically qualify for an interview onto either a full-time or part-time degree scheme in history, ancient history, archaeology or religion. If you are then accepted onto a degree you will be eligible for ‘advanced standing’ of 60 credits. This means that credits from your Exploring the Past modules can contribute directly towards the first year of your degree.

A flexible route that fits around you
The Exploring the Past Pathway is designed to support and fit around adult learners with busy lives, with modules taught at evenings and weekends.

An affordable way into university study
The Exploring the Past Pathway offers a route into university that is flexible, open, inclusive, and affordable.

Once you start studying on the pathway you can also access expert advice on the best way to fund your studies should you go on to a degree.

The Exploring the Past Pathway is made up of six 10-credit modules, including:

- At least... ONE 10-credit core module from Group 1
- AND FIVE 10-credit option modules from Group 2
- OR FOUR 10-credit option modules from Group 2 PLUS an appropriate 10-credit module from the wider programme.

Please note that if you already have a Higher Education qualification you may not be eligible for government funding if you decide to progress on to a degree.

‘Advanced standing’ applies only to single and joint honours degree schemes delivered solely by the School of History, Archaeology and Religion. It may not apply to degree schemes delivered jointly with other schools as they will have their own requirements.

Permission to ‘opt in’ 10 credits from Choices to the Pathway will be at the discretion of the Pathway’s Co-ordinator.

To receive further information about the Exploring the Past Pathway, please visit our website or contact Dr Paul Webster, Pathway Co-ordinator, by phoning 029 2087 5610 or emailing websterp@cardiff.ac.uk

Student Testimonials

Ioan McCarthy: From Exploring the Past to Study Abroad

After completing the Exploring the Past Pathway in 2015, Ioan McCarthy is on course to graduate from Cardiff University’s School of History, Archaeology and Religion in 2019, with a BA in Archaeology and History. Ioan is the first pathways student to participate in the university’s degree with a year of study abroad.

Ioan tells us that he “decided to come back to Higher Education after six years at work. I met the Exploring the Past co-ordinator at an open day. He explained how accessible and affordable the pathway was, thanks to the finance options available, so I decided to sign up.”

After starting his degree, Ioan took “the opportunity to study abroad, which I did at one of Scandinavia’s finest institutions, the University of Oslo, through the degree with a year of study abroad scheme. Soon I found myself living and studying in a beautiful and fascinating country. I had not expected to be able to pursue this upon entering the Exploring the Past Pathway, and owe this happy opportunity to the programme.”

Ioan would encourage anyone interested in History (ancient, medieval or modern), Archaeology or Religious Studies to follow in his footsteps: “Often, when speaking to others who share my interests, I hear things such as “it’s too late for me” or “it’s just not affordable”, but when I show them the opportunities available, the same opportunities I was given, you can see the aspiration come alive as it did for me.”

Ioan McCarthy

Our exciting programme of modern languages gives you an excellent opportunity to study a language from scratch and/or improve your existing language skills to a very high standard. For the fluent speakers of a foreign language we offer a good range of culture courses taught in the target language which give students some insight into the history, literature and social aspects of the countries in which these languages are spoken.

Enrolling on a language and/or course is the perfect way to make new friends, improve your confidence, keep your mind active and possibly improve your job prospects.

Our language courses are taught by qualified tutors, most of whom are native speakers.

By studying one of our language courses, you can gain credits and work towards a qualification, either the Certificate/Diploma in the language of your choice, or you could even join our Pathway to a Degree in Modern Languages or Translation programme in the highly ranked School of Modern Languages.

You will find most of our courses in this brochure, however, there will also be additional beginners courses in some languages starting in January 2020. These will be advertised on our website early December 2019. We also have a summer school programme in June/July 2020 and a separate brochure for these will be available end of March 2020.
This table helps you find your level however we know that in some cases this can be difficult. This is why you have the option of switching from one course to another during the first few weeks.

<tr>
<td>You have no previous knowledge of the language.</td>
<td>STAGE A</td>
<td>Basic survival skills: understanding basic written and spoken texts; taking part in simple conversation; conveying simple information in writing.</td>
<td>Preparation for A1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>STAGE A+</td>
<td>Stage A+ has been created as a bridge between Stage A and Stage B.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You may have studied the language a long time ago and you may be a bit rusty now (one year's part-time study or 'rusty' GCSE in the language studied).</td>
<td>STAGE B</td>
<td>You should have a sufficient vocabulary for coping with everyday situations with predictable content and simple survival needs. You should be able to handle very short social exchanges. You should be able to understand a simple description.</td>
<td>Preparation for A2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You may have acquired survival skills in the language and had some opportunity to use the language recently (two years' part-time study or a good recent GCSE pass in the language studied).</td>
<td>STAGE C</td>
<td>You should be able to confidently cope with everyday situations. You should be able to make and respond to invitations, apologies, etc. You should be able to understand a simple and direct exchange of limited information on familiar and routine matters.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You may have had a good command of the language some time ago and you want to reactivate and build upon your comprehension and expression (three years' part-time study or 'rusty' A-Level in the language studied).</td>
<td>STAGE D</td>
<td>You should have enough language to get by, with sufficient vocabulary to understand topics such as family, hobbies and interests, work, travel, and current events. You should be able to understand the main points in an idea or problem with reasonable precision.</td>
<td>Preparation for B1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You have recently completed an A-Level in the language studied and you are ready to take it a step further (four years' part-time study or A-Level in the language studied).</td>
<td>STAGE E</td>
<td>You should have a sufficient range of language to be able to understand descriptions and arguments on most topics related to family, hobbies and interests, work, travel, and current events. You should be able to identify unfamiliar words from the context on topics related to your field/interests.</td>
<td>Preparation for B2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You have a very good working knowledge of the language and you want a stimulating course to match and stretch your competencies (five years' part-time study or Advanced Stage E).</td>
<td>STAGE F</td>
<td>You should be able with some effort to keep up with fast and colloquial discussions. You should be able to understand detailed information reliably.</td>
<td>Preparation for C1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You have an excellent command of the language and use it on a regular basis. This level will enhance your near-native language skills (six years' part-time study or Advanced Stage F).</td>
<td>STAGE G/H</td>
<td>You should have a good command of broad lexical repertoire and a good command of idiomatic expressions and colloquialisms. You should be able to understand language effectively for social purposes, including emotional, affective and joking usage.</td>

Realità o finzione? Un viaggio nel documentario italiano dal dopoguerra a oggi
Fee £331.00 (Concessionary Fee £264.00)
Caterina Bertelli
Questo corso è rivolto a studenti che hanno un livello medio alto di italiano (B2 e oltre).
L’obiettivo è quello di esplorare insieme la tradizione del documentario italiano e la rappresentazione della realtà italiana. Nell’ultimo decennio il documentario italiano ha sicuramente contribuito ad un rinnovamento ed a un nuovo lancio del cinema italiano. Molti sono stati infatti i documentari che hanno vinto premi e riconoscimenti italiani e internazionali. La visione dei documentari sarà accompagnata dalla riflessione e discussione in classe, lettura e ascolto di interviste agli autori.

Intensive Language Courses

Every summer we run intensive language courses in June/July. Information will be available from our website and Reception in April.

These courses are ideal if:
- Your language course ended in the spring and you would like to get extra practice during the summer
- You would like to try a new language to see if you’d enjoy it;
- You’re planning to go abroad this summer and want to learn basic phrases or brush up on existing language skills.

These courses are good value for money and are usually very popular. We look forward to seeing you!

Este curso está orientado para estudiantes de nivel avanzado que quieren seguir practicando sus destrezas auditivas y orales además de adquirir nuevos conocimientos históricos y culturales. En este curso estudiaremos varios de los periodos de la historia de España desde los primeros pobladores hasta el siglo XX. Se utilizará una gran variedad de documentos y recursos tales como recortes de prensa, lecturas y documentales. Durante el curso veremos algunas películas basadas en algunos de los periodos históricos presentados en clase. Mediante las películas los alumnos podrán analizar el contexto histórico y practicar su gramática y vocabulario mediante actividades orales y escritas sobre la película vista en clase. Los estudiantes también tendrán la oportunidad de practicar sus destrezas orales y escritas mediante discusiones, análisis de texto, debates y presentaciones cortas sobre los temas tratados en clase. Se utilizará el laboratorio de idiomas regularmente para que el alumnado pueda trabajar cada cual a su ritmo y de forma autónoma.

in Modern Languages
French, German, Italian and Spanish

This part-time Pathway has been developed to help you to translate your love of languages into a degree level qualification.

The Pathway to a Degree in Modern Languages is a collaboration between Continuing and Professional Education and the School of Modern Languages at Cardiff University. It combines our vast experience of supporting adult learners with the School's exciting teaching and research expertise. Pathway modules are taught by people who have expert subject knowledge and the ability to support, inspire and share their learning with you.

The Pathway to a Degree in Modern Languages is made up of 60 credits of study. It is therefore equivalent to 50% of the first year of a degree and is intended to provide you with the linguistic skills and intellectual preparation needed to study for a degree in Modern Languages at Cardiff University.

You have the choice; to focus on one language (Single Honours) or study two languages (Joint Honours). The four languages you can choose from are: French, German, Italian and Spanish.

For a Single Honours degree, depending on your level of proficiency, you would need to obtain Stages E and F or Stages F and G.

If you are thinking about a degree which focuses on two languages (Joint Honours) then you would need to take 30 credits in your stronger language at Stage F or G and another 30 credits in your other language at Stage E or higher.

It usually takes a little under a year to complete 30 credits, so under normal circumstances you would finish the pathway in two years, although there may be opportunities to complete it more quickly. Indeed you may have already studied some of the modules you are required to complete.

However, we know that sometimes other things in life can get in the way of study so can take up to three years to complete the pathway if you need to.

You will find all of the Stage E, F and G courses in French, German, Italian and Spanish on offer this Autumn in the Modern Languages section and look for the following symbol.

So if you're driven by a love for languages and a desire to take your study of them further, contact us today! visit our website.

Learn with us and... realise your learning potential!
Our Public Service Interpreting (PSI) programme has been designed, with initial funding from the Welsh Government, to introduce bilingual students to the profession including role boundaries, professional conduct, terminology and practical issues, as well as to help those already working as interpreters to assess and further develop their interpreting and other professional skills and to offer guidance to students who are considering or preparing for the Diploma in Public Service Interpreting (DPSI) or Diploma in Police Interpreting (DPI) examinations.

The DPSI and DPI are qualifications independently awarded by the Chartered Institute of Linguists (CIOL) as a means of quality control for public service interpreters. The DPSI and DPI examinations are open to anyone regardless of whether they have completed any courses. Students who do not wish to sit the DPSI or DPI examination are also welcome to attend the courses. Entry to the exam is separate procedure for which separate fees are payable. More information about it can be found at www.ciol.org.uk

The courses are delivered in English only.

We also offer online preparation courses for the Chartered Institute of Linguists’ Diploma in Translation (DipTrans) from French and Spanish into English. These high-level courses are aimed at native English speakers and graduates (or equivalent) in French or Spanish. For more information, write to languages@cardiff.ac.uk

Cardiff University is an Examination Centre for the DPSI, DPI and the Diploma in Translation (see online pages on Language Qualifications).

Award winning examination centre

In 2018, Cardiff University School of Modern Languages (MLANG) was awarded the Nuffield Trophy for the Best Group Entry in the Diploma in Public Service Interpreting by the Chartered Institute of Linguists (CIOL). The Best Group Entry is awarded to the centre where candidates have achieved the highest combined scores across all the UK examination centres. The annual awards ceremony was held on the 14th November in London at the magnificent Common Room of the Law Society. The award was presented by CIOL President Richard Hardie, on behalf of HRH Prince Michael of Kent, Royal Patron of CIOL, and collected by the MLANG and Continuing and Professional Education tutor Zora Jackman, representing the Cardiff University examination centre.

It was a privilege to share the stage with the award winners of 16 categories for achieving the best performances in the CIOL language exams and for significant and outstanding contribution to fostering the study of languages, amongst them the journalist and BBC security correspondent Frank Gardner OBE.

The Nuffield Trophy award is a recognition of the outstanding achievements of students of our Public Service Interpreting courses in Continuing and Professional Education along with external candidates, as well as the excellent work of MLANG as an examination centre for the CIOL. It is a significant success in the face of competition from examination centres in the entire country. The award should serve as an encouragement for all members of our communities who are seeking professional recognition as public service interpreters to become our students and work towards professional qualifications.
Politics and International Relations/Law

Co-ordinating Lecturer Jan Stephens
Tel: 029 2087 6248 Email: StephensJ4@cardiff.ac.uk

The International Relations and Politics/Law courses are offered both to professionals and those with a lay interest in these very contemporary issues. The diverse range of study opportunities are designed to meet public interest as we are increasingly keen to understand and to challenge how we are governed, and to understand who in our society constructs the regulations and rules by which we lead our everyday lives.

The Pathway to International Relations and Politics offers the chance to achieve 60 credits before progressing to the main undergraduate programme. This is an exciting opportunity and we hope it will meet demand for knowledge and understanding of the world we are part of. Studying the pathway offers a chance for you to gain professional knowledge and skills in a stimulating environment, taught by knowledgeable tutors.

There is a study opportunity in this exciting subject area for you!

STUDENT TESTIMONIALS

Mario Barbantini Scanni

Mario visited the Senedd to discuss Brexit as part of the module The Political System in Wales

"I’m enrolled on the Pathway to International Relations and Politics and my review about the course "The Political System in Wales" is that it was a module that definitely opened my eyes to British politics and how much there is to the subject. It painted a clear picture of devolution and how much of a big deal it is in Wales. The module also really helped me to engage in good discussions regarding Brexit which is a hot topic this year so I think it was a really good time to be studying this module. I think this module is really engaging. There was some good discussions which all of us took part in class and this Saturday School in The Senedd has been good for that, I think it was the perfect place to be on the day after Brexit was due to take place. So I’ve definitely learnt a lot about the National Assembly for Wales too."

Science seeks to describe the world we live in and the ability to wonder about, question and understand how things behave is very much a part of all our lives.

This year, we introduce new courses on Gardens and the Subconscious, The Artist and the Garden and The Twentieth Century Garden and Lifestyle to sit alongside courses on Medical Imaging and the Human Body and Disease in the Developing World.

As always, there are courses on offer at weekends and this year, in addition to Astronomy in Action and Herbal Medicine, the relationship between the landscapes we see and the underlying geology will continue to be explored in courses on Field Geology in South Shropshire, Parts 1 and 2.

Introduction to Human Biology is a core module for our Pathway to Healthcare, whilst Diseases and Disorders of the Brain focuses on current research and pays particular attention to the underlying molecular and genetic factors associated with disorders of the brain. Early enrolment is recommended for all courses to avoid disappointment.

The Artist and the Garden

Fee £170.00 (Concessionary Fee £136.00)

Stephen Parker

In the modern era the ‘artist-gardener’ came of age, Painters became gardeners. The artist’s love of gardens generated new opportunities to experiment with colour, themes and emotions, as the garden emerged as a major subject in modern art. We will consider the garden in art and culture, from depictions of Paradise to evocations of a past golden age, in the literature and wider arts of the 19th and 20th centuries.

The Twentieth Century Garden and Lifestyle

Fee £170.00 (Concessionary Fee £136.00)

Stephen Parker
Post-war modernity sought to rethink and redesign almost every aspect of domestic life, from furniture to houses and gardens. Indeed the very structure of society would be rethought through revolutionary notions, such as socialism and vegetarianism! We focus primarily on house and garden and the overwhelming influence the movement had then, and now, on garden making.

Field Geology in South Shropshire (Part 2)

Fee £170.00 (Concessionary Fee £136.00)

Dr Nick Chidlaw
In this tract of the Welsh Borderland is found some of its most attractive scenery and varied geology. Part 2 examines Ordovician rocks and metaliferous ores close to the Powys border, highly fossiliferous Silurian limestones on Wenlock Edge, Old Red Sandstone strata near Ludlow, and Carboniferous rocks in roadstone quarries and former coal mines on Clee Hill. No prior knowledge of geology or the area is assumed, so this course is also suitable for anyone who was not on Part 1. Please note that you will need to make your own travel and accommodation arrangements, with meeting time and place to be confirmed.

Medical Imaging and the Human Body

- Dr Zbig Sobiesierski
  - Up until the 20th century, our understanding of human anatomy came largely from dissection. Beginning with a brief history of anatomy, we will examine how the application of x-ray, ultrasound, magnetic resonance and a range of other techniques allow us to construct different images, and so develop a more detailed and non-invasive understanding of the human body.

Loren Williams
Finally following my dreams!

“...I am incredibly grateful to have been given the opportunity to be taught by such learned lecturers, who are willing and able to answer all of the questions I have had, offering support and reassurance when I have needed it, and positive criticism that has enabled me to grow as an individual. The Pathway to Healthcare courses have equipped me to raise my academic ability and also reinstalled self-confidence and for this I shall always be thankful. This course has genuinely changed my life, my once pipe dream of becoming a Midwife is now becoming my reality.

Loren started her Midwifery Degree in September 2018

Anything is possible, all you have to do is put your mind to it, believe in yourself and take the leap! I am incredibly grateful for this opportunity at the age of 30, with two children, a job and a husband. I finally get to follow my dreams!”

A glimpse at a Lively Saturday School with Dr Craig Gurney

As part of the module Public Policy for Health students took part in a Saturday School where they enjoyed interactive lectures with an enthusiastic tutor who made the topic interesting. Students produced some excellent posters which demonstrated how much they'd learned about the way in which health policy is formed and demonstrated their presentation skills which critically evaluated a range of current policies.

Dr Craig Gurney commented:

The passing of the 2017 Public Health (Wales) Act reminds us of the centrality of the policy making process in understanding how and why certain issues become hot topics and how and why there may be different approaches to addressing well documented public health problems such as alcohol abuse, mental health and well being problems, obesity and smoking. This course introduces and describes the processes by which public health policies are formed and considers how they can be evaluated. It provides students with an opportunity to identify, understand and critically assess the policies which inform everyday healthcare practice and demonstrates how policy responses to health problems are complex, inter-connected and are the result of an inherently political process. Policies for health touch our lives in numerous ways. This course demonstrates that these policies are not neutral but are inherently political.

Students have provided enthusiastic responses to the Pathway to Healthcare:

“I hope the course will continue to run as this is giving people like me the opportunity to make ourselves be better, no matter what age we are.”

“The tutor made the lessons very interesting and interactive, and was very good at engaging the class.”

“The tutor made me feel at ease, and the course was extremely informative and interesting.”

“The best thing about this course was the tutor support. I felt able to relate to the tutor and the topics.”

Learning Counselling Skills

Fee £170.00 (Concessionary Fee £136.00)

The course provides basic training in the use of counselling skills for use in a variety of work and personal situations. The focus is on improving your communication skills and raising personal self-awareness. It is not training to become a ‘Counsellor’ but can serve as a taster of what undertaking that training might be like. The course is experiential and very practical, students will have the opportunity to practice using counselling skills every week in small groups, combined with an introduction to counselling theory.

The Social Studies programme provides the opportunity for you to engage with some of the most complex social issues facing us in contemporary society. Courses can be taken as a stand-alone course or combined to achieve a Certificate in Continuing Education (60 credits, level 4).

The range of Counselling courses and Acceptance and Commitment Therapy courses provide useful skills and practice to deal with challenges and stresses at home and in work.

If you are a returning student, we would love to hear how your studies have helped in your career progression or self-development. Contact us for a testimonial form to provide us with valuable feedback.

Successful completion of the Pathway to Social Science modules at the correct grade enables you to apply to an undergraduate degree and pursue this popular route to progress into higher education and we provide a supportive and stimulating learning environment for your studies.
Mentoring is used increasingly for supporting individuals to achieve their goals in life. As a mentor you will develop your ability to establish rapport, develop listening skills and the ability to pick up and respond to issues raised by your mentee. Acceptance and Commitment Therapy I

Fee £170.00 (Concessionary Fee £136.00)

- Ingrid Wallace
  - Acceptance and Commitment Therapy (ACT) is a values-based behavioral therapy with a mindfulness component. ACT is evidence-based and has an ever-growing range of applications, e.g. stress, anxiety, self-esteem, and confidence. ACT is a down-to-earth approach of being true to one's values and to apply them as a basis for goal setting and achieving greater vitality.

Acceptance and Commitment Therapy II

Fee £170.00 (Concessionary Fee £136.00)

- Ingrid Wallace
  - Course pre-requisite: Students should have introductory level knowledge of Acceptance and Commitment Therapy. ACT II develops many of the ideas from the first Acceptance and Commitment Therapy course. This time we will draw on metaphors to explore ideas such as courage and confidence, fear and daring, to help us understand what motivates and stimulates us to live the life we desire.
  - 10 weekly meetings Wednesdays from 7:00 pm to 9:00 pm

Opportunity for Postgraduates to Teach on Pathways

Jan Stephens, who convenes the Pathway to Social Science, Business, and Politics and International Relations says,

The Pathways to a degree project is a great opportunity to offer postgraduate students quality teaching hours in a friendly and well-supported environment. Adult learners are keen to learn and bring many questions to the classroom which makes for lively debate. Tutor training is offered as well as access to the Tutor Room which has plenty of work stations and a quiet space for working.

Vacancies are advertised through the university’s jobs page.

Course pre-requisite: Students should have a knowledge of Acceptance and Commitment Therapy from having taken ACT I or ACT II. ACT Skills will take a hands-on approach and we will learn to work with and within the Hexaflex ACT Model. With the help of case scenarios, self-reflection and small group work we will explore how to apply ACT core skills, thus increasing our understanding of the model and move from one core process to another, having developed a greater insight into the interdependence of the core processes of the ACT model.

- 10 weekly meetings Wednesdays from 7:00 pm to 9:00 pm
  - Starting 15th April 2020
  - John Percival Building, Colum Drive, Cardiff

Education and Society

Fee £450.00 (Concessionary Fee £360.00)

Jan Stephens
This module will introduce you to the role of education in modern society. You will consider the structure and organisation of education and be presented with a selection and summary of key policy changes and their impacts. The emphasis will be on developing your own understanding and critical analysis of the relationship between education and society and in this way, the module will provide a foundation for further studies on your Pathway.

Social Studies

Introduction to Social Science

Fee £450.00 (Concessionary Fee £360.00)

Stephen Jennings
Introduction to Social Science will focus your studies on contemporary society. We will look at the Media and how they impact on different groups in society; the changing cultures within our society; the participation and relationship society has to politics. Study skills will be a particular focus this term so that you are confident and ready to move on to the next course on your Pathway.

I enrolled on this pathway as I had an interest in Social Science. I have always wanted to go to university and enjoyed education. The course is brilliant as it fits in with my lifestyle as I am a mum of three.

The tutor and course leader have been brilliant and I know if I needed any further help, I just have to ask. I’ve learnt how to be in education again! If anyone was thinking about returning to study a pathway I would say go for it! It will be the best thing you could do – life-changing!

Lauren Holder

It has been a big leap coming back to education after so many years and the support has been fantastic.

I have been learning to read analytically and write in an academic style, developing a sociological imagination and confidence.

I can’t recommend the pathway enough. The course is fascinating and relevant, the staff are encouraging and supportive and there are plenty of resources available. I’m already encouraging all my friends to enrol this year!

Pete Wentland
Finally, you can also study a range of 60 credit pathways at Level 4. These pathways not only put you in a position to apply for a degree, but if your application is successful those 60 credits can count as half of the first year on the degree itself. Current subject areas include: Accounting, Business Management, History, Ancient History, Archaeology and Religion, English Language, English Literature, Creative Writing and Philosophy, Healthcare, Modern Languages, Social Science, Translation, Journalism, Media and Cultural Studies, Politics and International Relations and Medical Pharmacology. We are also working with other academic schools within the university to add new subject areas to that list.

Your student voice
Your Points of View - Student Representatives can be contacted if you have any comments, questions or feedback. There is a pigeonhole in Reception for the Student Representatives or alternatively you can email them using learn@cardiff.ac.uk

Need books for your course?
Since there is a possibility that a class may not run if enrolments are too low, please bear this in mind before purchasing any books or equipment prior to the course. You may wish to consider using the university's libraries as an alternative to purchasing your own books (see below).

Using the University Library Service
When you enrol on a course you may borrow from the University's Libraries and access our computing facilities. The Senghennydd Library holds the books and other material which you will need to help you with your studies and also has four group study rooms that can be booked in advance. If however, you wish to search more widely, you may also use most of our 14 libraries. As well as books and computers the libraries offer somewhere for you to study, various electronic media including CDs and DVDs. Our library catalogue, LibrarySearch (www.cardiff.ac.uk/libraries), opening times and details of our library services are available online at http://cardiff.ac.uk/libraries. This means you can access our facilities from home. To use our facilities you will need to obtain an ID/Library card. How to do this is explained on this page.

How to obtain your ID/Library Card
To obtain your ID/Library card you need to take your receipt or letter of confirmation (obtainable from Reception) to the Senghennydd Library. There your photograph will be taken and a library card produced. The service is available Monday to Friday 9.00am to 9.00pm. At peak enrolment periods there may be a short wait. Senghennydd Library opening hours in term (term) time are: Monday to Friday 8.45am - 9.30am and Saturday 10.00am - 5.30pm. During the vacation the Library is open Monday to Friday 8.45am - 5.00pm. Vacation dates will be displayed in the library and are available on our website.

Cardiff University delivers short community-based courses, accredited at level 3 and flexibly delivered in familiar locations around South East Wales.

Focuses on those living in wards where university participation rates are low, the courses are designed and run in collaboration with a wide range of local organisations and other learning providers. Our partners play a vital role in ensuring the course content, structure and delivery meets local needs and interests.

Courses run throughout the year in Cardiff and the surrounding areas. The courses are delivered by dedicated tutors experienced in working with students from a variety of backgrounds and with different learning experiences.

We run up to 30 short courses each year providing attractive and flexible learning opportunities designed to support community based students’ progress to the next stage whether that is work, college or university. Many of our students have progressed onto our ‘Choices’ or ‘Pathways to a Degree’ courses.

Courses are run at different times of the day to suit the needs of a variety of people. They vary from one 2-hour session over 9 weeks, to intensive 3-day courses – whatever works best in that location and community.

Some examples of the courses we ran last year include:
- Child Psychology
- Starting up a Business
- Introduction to Public Service Interpreting
- Project Management and Development

Progression as a Mature Student

Many students use our courses as a springboard for further study. If you are considering studying for an undergraduate degree we can help you. We provide:

- information and support for those wishing to progress to university
- a clearer understanding of the various routes into Higher Education
- an insight into university life as a mature student
- information on the range of support that is available and how to access various support services
- access to online resources to help you decide where and what to study.

We work closely with other academic schools in Cardiff University, other universities, local education colleges, community groups and advisors so can offer suggestions on who you need to talk to in order to move forward.

Returning to study is a big step so the more help you receive early on the easier the transition will be.

- Mature Student Induction: open to mature students who are starting undergraduate studies and feel they may benefit from taking advanced action to assist them to make the most of their time at university.
  - Gives students early and direct access to useful people, information and services e.g., financial, welfare etc.
  - Provides students with an opportunity to meet like-minded people and address any concerns early on
  - Introduces students to the library and information resources
  - Explores some of the key skills needed for effective study
  - Gives students access to a network of support
