Meet our Students

A few of our students reflect back on what living in residences was like for them

Nina: Talybont Court

“In my first year I stayed in Talybont Court. It was one of the more expensive halls but it was worth it to have your own bathroom, especially in the first year when everyone is still learning how to clean up after themselves! We had really nice, spacious communal areas which was great for mingling with your flat and anyone else who came over.”

Dan: Colum Road

“Living in University accommodation has plenty of great points as well as no complicated bills (everything is included in three easy payments) and if any problems arise you can deal with the University directly, not landlords. I lived in Colum Road. Everybody passed here on their way to lectures, which meant I got 10 minutes extra sleep in the morning!”

Toby: Senghenydd Court

“My first Cardiff residence was Senghenydd Court and it was a great introduction to University life. Although it’s really daunting living with four people you’ve never met before, everyone is in the same situation and halls make it really easy to form new friendships and meet new people. Loads of people even end up living with their original hall-mates for a full three years.”
Aimee-Louise: Talybont Court

“Living in Talybont Court was great; it’s close to the sports centre and only about a 10 minute walk to the University. Living in halls is an amazing experience and you meet so many new people. The payments are really simple, just 3 payments in a year and no bills on top and if you have any problems you can just pop down to reception and they get them sorted really quickly.”

Freya: Talybont South

“Moving into halls of residence is the best possible thing a new student in a new city can do. Living in Talybont South you have 20-something other houses to go and visit as well as the sports centre, so there was always plenty to do. I can’t really put into words what a good time I had in halls, all I can say is that I strongly recommend it!”
