

LOM Strategy & Advisory Board

The LOM Strategy & Advisory Board helps guide the direction of the LOM section and provides an opportunity for LOM academics to engage with industry leaders and policy makers to generate innovation.

The Board guides the LOM Section by:

1. Providing advice and guidance on the research programme of the Section
2. Assisting in the development of links between the Section and the wider business, academic, public and policy communities
3. Reviewing our engagement with external parties at a regional, national, European and international level
4. Advising on the types and level of engagement we have within our research, teaching and knowledge transfer
5. Helping us to review our teaching portfolios

The Board convenes three times annually with each meeting providing a different focus such as teaching & learning, marketing of the LOM Section and its programmes, and research strategy.

The board is co-chaired by Professor Robert Mason (Head of LOM Section) and Professor Aris Syntetos and includes the external members listed below as well as internal members comprising readers and professors from the LOM Section.
