Meddwl am Genedlaethau'r Dyfodol

Mae Prifysgol Caerdydd yn arloesi gydag ymchwil sy'n gweithredu heddiw er budd yfory, gan greu gwybodaeth a syniadau y bydd cenedlaethau'r dyfodol yn dibynnu arnyn nhw.

Rydyn ni wastad wedi credu yng ngrym gwybodaeth i lunio byd gwell. Ers mwy na chanrif, rydyn ni wedi sefyll gyda'n cymunedau, wedi herio anghyfiawnder, ac wedi gweithio dros gynnydd, yng Nghymru a thu hwnt.

Rydyn ni wedi gwneud ymrwymiad ar y cyd i weithredu heddiw dros y rhai sy'n dod nesaf – ymrwymiad sy'n llunio ein penderfyniadau, ein cydweithrediadau a'r ymchwil rydyn ni'n dewis ei dilyn.

Rydyn ni'n brifysgol a adeiladwyd ar chwilfrydedd, tosturi, a'r argyhoeddiad y gall dysgu a darganfod newid bywydau.

Dyma'r genhadaeth sy'n ein ysgogi ni.
Dyma Feddwl am Genedlaethau'r Dyfodol.

Ateb yr her

Rydyn ni'n dod â disgyblaethau, partneriaid a safbwyntiau ynghyd, i fynd i'r afael â phroblemau na all un maes eu datrys ar ei ben ei hun.

Mae'r heriau sy'n wynebu ein byd – o newid hinsawdd ac anghydraddoldeb iechyd i darfu ar systemau technolegol ac ansefydlogrwydd democrataidd – yn galw am ymchwil sy'n drylwyr, uchelgeisiol a sy'n cael ei gwthio yn ei blaen mewn ffyrdd ystyrllon.

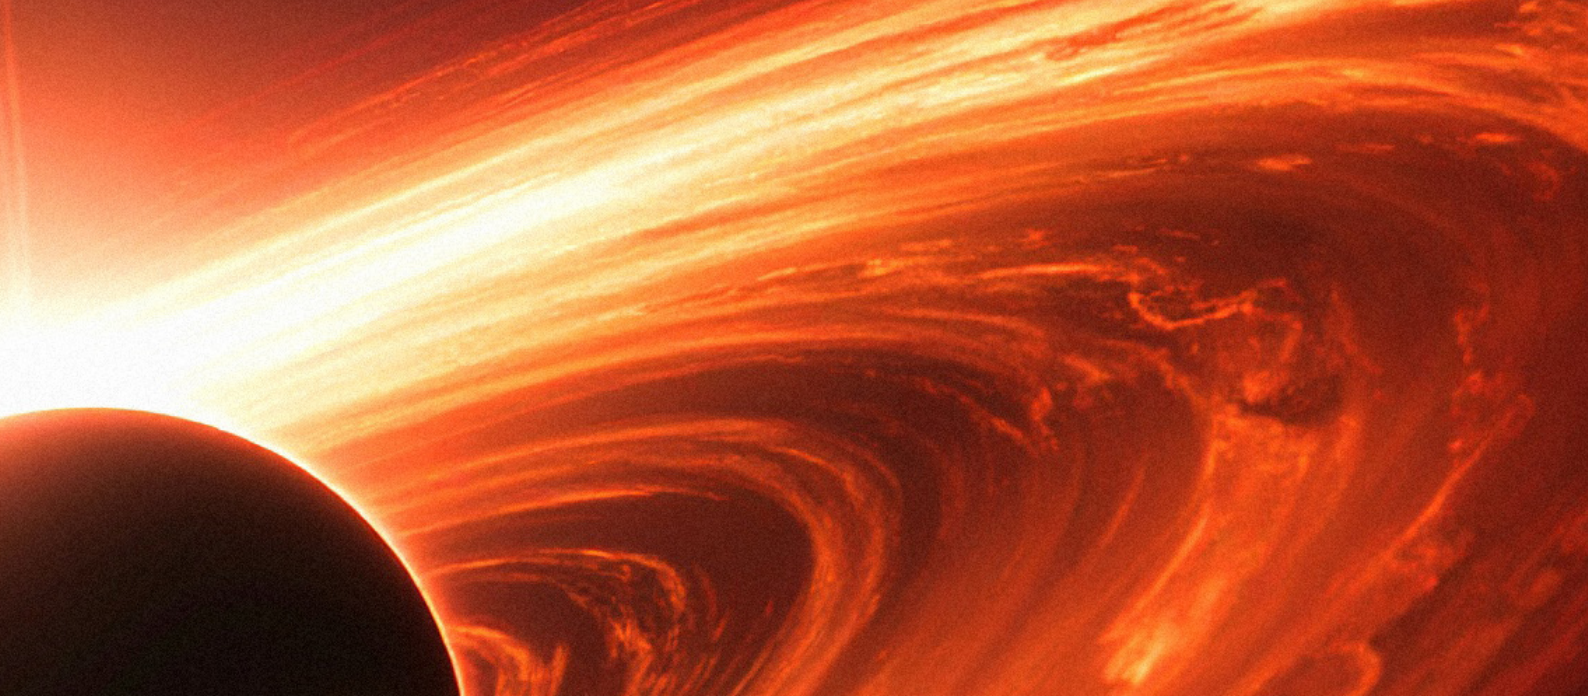

Bob dydd, mae ein hymchwylwyr yn ymateb i hynny. Maen nhw'n creu mewnwelediadau newydd, technolegau newydd a dealltwriaeth newydd a fydd yn diogelu, cryfhau a grymuso cenedlaethau'r dyfodol.

Arolwg Hynt y Graddedigion

Ymhen tua 15 mis ar ôl graddio, cewch eich gwahodd i gymryd rhan yn arolwg Hynt y Graddedigion. Mae eich mewnbyn yn helpu i lunio'r dyfodol i fyfyrwyr yn union yr un fath â chi. Mae gan eich ymateb y grym i ddylanwadu ar bolisi addysg uwch a marchnad swyddi graddedigion.

Cadwch lygad am eich gwahoddiad drwy e-bost, neges destun neu ffôn — i gael dweud eich dweud.

Future Generation Thinking

Cardiff University is pioneering research that acts today for the benefit of tomorrow, creating knowledge and ideas that future generations will depend on.

We have always believed in the power of knowledge to shape a better world. For more than a century, we've stood with our communities, challenged injustice, and worked for progress, in Wales and far beyond.

A shared commitment to act today for those who come next sits at the heart of our organisation – a commitment that shapes our decisions, our collaborations and the research we choose to pursue.

We are a university built on curiosity, compassion, and the conviction that learning and discovery can change lives.

This is the mission that drives us.
This is Future Generation Thinking.

Rising to the challenge

We bring together disciplines, partners, and perspectives, to tackle problems no single field can solve alone.

The challenges facing our world – from climate change and health inequality to technological disruption and democratic instability – demand research that is rigorous, ambitious and driven by purpose.

Every day, our researchers rise to that moment. They are producing new insights, new technologies and new understanding that will protect, strengthen and empower future generations.

Graduate Outcomes Survey

Around 15 months after you graduate, you'll be invited to take part in the Graduate Outcomes survey. Your insights help shape the future for students just like you. Your response has the power to influence higher education policy and the graduate job market.

Look out for your invitation by email, text or phone – and have your say.

Sylw ar ymchwil

Mae ein academyddion yn gweithio i fynd i'r afael â rhai o heriau mwyaf cymdeithas.

Bydd llawer ohonoch wedi cefnogi Tîm Caerdydd yn y gemau Varsity eleni. Ond oeddech chi'n gwybod bod rhai o'r athletwyr ac academyddion benywaidd yn cydweithio i fynd i'r afael â'r bwlch rhywedd mewn ymchwil chwaraeon?

Mae ymchwilwyr yn yr Ysgolion Peirianeg, Seicoleg a Deintyddiaeth yn gweithio gyda Chlwb Rygbi Merched y Brifysgol i gyflwyno'r asesiad cyntaf o'r risgiau hirdymor sy'n gysylltiedig â chwaraeon cyswllt menywod.

Mae'r astudiaeth yn cyfuno data o gardiau ceg wedi'u hofferynnu – a ddefnyddir i gofnodi amllder a maint trawiadau i'r pen – gyda delweddu cyseiniant magnetig (MRI) uwch, elastograffeg cyseiniant magnetig (MRE) ac efelychiadau cyfrifiadurol.

I Cleo Turley (21), blaenwr rhes gefn sy'n graddio eleni yn y Biowyddorau, mae'n hen bryd cynnal yr astudiaeth.

Dechreuodd chwarae yn saith oed ac erbyn iddi ymuno â'r tîm dan 9, pan ddechreuodd chwarae cyswllt, hi oedd yr unig ferch yn ei thîm lleol yn Nyfnaint.

“Roedd sôn am iechyd y pen, ond nid ar y lefel y dylai fod,” eglura.

Dros y tymor diwethaf, roedd gan chwaraewyr tîm Super Rugby BUCS Merched y Brifysgol gardiau ceg wedi'u hofferynnu a gyflenwyd gan HIT IQ, er mwyn gallu olrhain maint ac amllder y trawiadau i'r pen roedden nhw'n eu profi.

Mae is-set o bum chwaraewr hefyd yn cael sganiau MRI uwch ac MRE niferus, sy'n caniatáu i ymchwilwyr gofnodi unrhyw newidiadau sy'n esblygu yn strwythur ac anystwythder yr ymennydd.

Dywed y tîm academiaidd y bydd eu canfyddiadau'n hanfodol wrth lunio protocolau diogelwch yn seiliedig ar dystiolaeth sy'n benodol i rywedd.

Dywedodd arweinydd y prosiect, Dr Peter Theobald o'r Ysgol Peirianeg y byddai'r astudiaeth hefyd yn allweddol wrth ddiffinio trothwyon benywaidd ar gyfer asesu anafiadau i'r pen mewn rygbi a chwaraeon eraill.

“Er bod chwaraeon cyswllt eisoes wedi'u cysylltu â chlefyd yr ymennydd trwy astudiaethau post-mortem o athletwyr gwrywaidd elit, ni chynhaliwyd unrhyw ymchwil debyg erioed ar fenywod - er gwaethaf tystiolaeth y gallai ymennydd y fenyw fod yn fwy agored i anafiadau,” eglura.

“Gyda chyfranogiad mewn chwaraeon menywod yn tyfu'n gyflym ledled y DU, mae angen astudiaethau fel hon sy'n benodol i rywedd ar frys i lywio polisi, canllawiau diogelwch a phrotocolau chwaraeon yn y dyfodol.”

Research spotlight

Our academics are working to tackle some of society's biggest challenges.

Many of you will have supported Team Cardiff at this year's Varsity games. But did you know some of our female athletes and academics are working together to tackle the gender gap in sports research?

Researchers from the Schools of Engineering, Psychology and Dentistry are working with the University's Women's Rugby Football Club (CUWRFC) to deliver the very first assessment of the long-term risks associated with female contact sport.

The study combines data from instrumented mouthguards—used to record the frequency and magnitude of head impacts—with advanced magnetic resonance imaging (MRI), magnetic resonance elastography (MRE) and computer simulations.

For back row forward Cleo Turley (21) who graduates this year with a degree in Biosciences, the study is long overdue.

She started playing aged seven and by the time she ran out for the under 9s team, when contact started, she was the only girl in her local Devon side.

“Head health was spoken about, but not on the level that I think it should have been,” she explains.

Over the course of last season, players from the University's Women's BUCS Super Rugby team were equipped with instrumented mouthguards supplied by HIT IQ, so that the magnitude and frequency of head impacts they experienced could be tracked.

A subset of five players is also undergoing multiple, advanced MRI and MRE scans, allowing researchers to record any evolving changes in brain structure and stiffness.

The academic team says their findings will be vital in shaping evidence-based, gender-specific safety protocols.

Project lead Dr Peter Theobald of the School of Engineering said the study would also be key in defining female thresholds for head injury assessments in rugby and other sports.

“While contact sports have already been linked to brain disease through post-mortem studies of elite male athletes, no similar research has ever been conducted in women—despite evidence that the female brain may be more vulnerable to injury,” he explains.

“With participation in women's sport growing rapidly across the UK, gender-specific studies like ours are urgently needed to inform future policy, safety guidance and sporting protocols.”

Oath

“I promise that I will make the care of my patients my first concern. I will be considerate to all my patients and will strive to communicate effectively with them. I will respect my patients' dignity and autonomy, and their right to be fully involved in decisions about their care. At all times I will be honest and trustworthy, respecting and protecting confidential information. My personal beliefs will not prejudice my care of patients. Recognising the limits of my competence, I will keep my professional knowledge and skills up to date. If I believe that I or a colleague may not be fit to practise, I will act quickly to protect patients from risk. I will not abuse my professional position and will work with colleagues in the ways that best serve patients. I will never discriminate unfairly against patients or colleagues and I will always be prepared to justify my actions to them. I make this promise solemnly, freely and upon my honour.”

“I promise that I will make the care of my patients my first concern. I will be considerate to all my patients and will strive to communicate effectively with them. I will respect my patients' dignity and autonomy, and their right to be fully involved in decisions about their care. At all times I will be honest and trustworthy, respecting and protecting confidential information. My personal beliefs will not prejudice my care of patients. Recognising the limits of my competence, I will keep my professional knowledge and skills up to date. I will not abuse my professional position and will work with colleagues in the ways that best serve patients. I will never discriminate unfairly against patients or colleagues and I will always be prepared to justify my actions to them. I make this promise solemnly, freely and upon my honour.”

EDUCATION

Learning's a passport that returns you home a better person. It permits you to dare being daring. Makes you secure with not knowing everything. Helps you welcome some failure. Forges an alloy with others' thinking. It is simple delight in mind and its motions. Scintillates but isn't deceptive. Admits the joy of institutes, is the open road to everywhere but bigotry.
It's the shortest distance between you and me and, if you're lucky, it never ends.

Cafodd y gerdd Education gan Fardd Cenedlaethol cyntaf Cymru, Gwyneth Lewis (Hon 2005), ei chomisiynu'n arbenning gan Brifysgol Caerdydd.

The poem Education by Wales' inaugural National Poet, commissioned by Cardiff University.
